

DAILY PLANET

ALL THE NEWS THAT FITS

Tuesday, February 17

1998

Kennedy Named Deputy Director Of Science and Engineering

James W. Kennedy has been appointed deputy director of Science and Engineering, Science and Engineering Directorate, at MSFC. Previously, Kennedy served as manager of the Solid Rocket Booster Project, Space Shuttle Projects Office. He also served as MSFC resident manager at KSC for the Space Shuttle solid rocket booster activities and as resident X-34 project manager.

MSFC
Employee
Update, 10 a.m.
Wed., March 11,
In Morris Auditorium

Space Transportation Lead Center Management Council Meeting at Marshall Tues.

McConnaughey Appointed Director of Propulsion Lab

Dr. Helen V. McConnaughey has been named director of the Propulsion Laboratory at MSFC. Prior to this appointment she served as deputy director of the Lab. She joined Marshall in 1985 and has served in a variety of other key positions at the Center since then.

Local Leadership Program Names Lowery Distinguished Leader

Government and Community Relations Officer Lynne Lowery received the Leadership Huntsville/Madison County 1997-1998 Distinguished Leadership Award last week. Lowery was in the first Leadership Huntsville class and was the program's first woman chairperson.

ISO 9000
MARSHALL SPACE FLIGHT CENTER
ISO Registration Audit
February 25th-27th

